Define 'anti-vaxxer'.

Are you including people who have taken most vaccines throughout their life but understandably have deep and specific concerns about the safety of a vaccine that has been produced in a matter of months?

If so, you are part of the problem.

The smears are already beginning.

Any sensible person who rightly questions the safety of a #vaccine that has skipped years of safety trials is now an 'anti-vaxxer' - even if you've accepted pretty much every other vaccine in your life.

This will backfire on the government.

Pointless data for two reasons:

1. A positive test result is not a 'case'.

2. For the data to have any chance of being accurate you'd need to test the entire population every day.

Stop quoting pointless data.

I ask for an umpteenth time s question that perhaps nobody knows the answer to

Is the vaccine administered by needle only?

A lot of people for varying reasons won t go anywhere a needle and I am one Look, I can't be more direct. We can't have a lethal pandemic sweeping the land, killing thousands of people & it NOT show up in the total mortality charts. Not unless someone is hiding dead bodies. And they're not. Its MISDIAGNOSES. Please wake up. It's not even new.

They're slightly LESS loaded than normal for mid November
Still no excess deaths
So, those thousands of covid19 deaths this autumn are where, exactly, in this official chart running to early Nov?

It's called having principles. A principle such as valuing liberty highly isn't one I'm willing to relinquish simply because Boris Johnson is the 'least shit option'. He has revealed himself to be a dangerous, globalist authoritarian. Only simps still follow him.

Does that make you a 'typical lefty' then?

I honestly think you're majorly confused. You seem to only be able to view the world as a duality between Labour and Conservatives i.e. if you're not one then you're the other. The world must look so sh*t in 2D.

Being 'influential' isn't an intrinsic good in itself.

For example, Adolf Hitler was very 'influential'.

I think we need to get our head round what a 'wasted vote' s. We say t every electon time The reality s that voting for a globalist authoritarian government is worse than a wasted voted d rather vote for someone I know can't win than vote for somebody awful who can

anita @anitanewark2 7 Min

you can call it whatever you want. a wasted vote is one that goes to a group that had no chance of winning a seat. anybody who votes for 'the monster raving looney party' may as wel stay home as they wil never get nto power I would never waste my time to make a wasted vote

I mean, I get what you're saying, but it's demonstrably untrue.

UKIP, for example, had no chance of winning, but forced David Cameron into a manifesto pledge of an EU referendum so he didn't lose too many votes. For UKIP to hold any sway, people needed to vote for them.

IDK why people hate the Great Reset all of the sudden Yes it is a group of people with money working together, the whole point is to get global businesses to work together to make the world better If you don't want to build back better do you want to build back worse?

Unsurprised by the "green nonsense" comments under my post.

Back in the day these people would have said "Voters don't care about this internal combustion engine nonsense. Do you want grooms and farriers to lose their jobs?"

Learn from the past, but look to the future.

Untrue. The Act allows the government to restrict events and gatherings, close schools, and postpone democratic elections. The provisions in it are also what enable the government to impose lockdown. Without it they couldn't make it work.

Your right my previous tweet didnt make sence. I'll try again this is about a virus that has killed 1 of my friends (no previous conditions),2 have been in hospital (1 on a ventilator),5 more tested positive (3 very ill whilst recovering), so yes it's about a Virus.

Well, if you're telling the truth then I'm sorry to hear that. People die and are sick with all sorts of viruses and conditions all the time. The truth is there was a brief pandemic in the late Spring, and then it ended. The 'all-cause' death data confirms that.

They stopped because that s the natural curve of the virus, nothing we have done has helped. It's a seasonal respiratory virusnand the curve s the same no matter the lockdown measures. Gompertz n Europe and N America and a longer flatter one n Florida and S America

Simply not true Why is the virus dropping again now? If its just due to seasonal, it would be continuing to spiral out of control now. But its being reduced in recent weeks because of the restrictions

Why don't we ask Sweden, who experienced exactly the same curves with very minor restrictions across the country.

Sweden has increased restrictions too for this second wave, yes their approach may be more light touch than ours. but they will have more compliance Im afraid a significant proportion of the population won't comply with voluntary restrictions in the UK, it needed enforcement

Stockholm was a ghost town around the end of March, I could hardly see anybody in the streets here. People were largely staying home, and that cut the main Swedish outbreak short. Most other regions never had major outbreaks, as you can read in the linked thread.

You've shown me October. So you've shown more people die from respiratory disease in the winter. Now show me how few people are dying from flu & pneumonia compared with average. And then show me top causes of death for 2020.

Voting fraud is rampant in the UK (It is not just in the USA)
#Boris should use his 80 majority to stop it.
1) Introduce voter ID across the UK (not just in N. Ireland as now)

I used it to expose your untenable principle that if something is in law then you should obey it until it is changed through due process. I note you were unable to answer but instead claimed offence. That's fine, we'll leave it there.

So let me get this straight...

• An mRNA #vaccine has never been approved before.

• Years of trials have been shortcutted.

• We don't know the side effects beyond six months.

• The plan is to give it to the entire world population.

What could possibly go wrong?

The timeline axis is squashed on your version, which can give a different impression. Below is the same graph in landscape. The original graph runs to 1 November which was a low reporting day. Even if we ignore that dip as a reporting issue we can still see deaths are on average.

Hi Boris & Matt

Just wanted to be totally transparent. I'm seeing my #family over #Christmas whether you 'allow' it or not.

There will be zero social distancing, lots of hugs, and we'll probably all eat nibbles out of the same bowl using our fingers.

Best wishes

Incredibly exciting news the Oxford vaccine has proved so effective in trials There are still further safety checks ahead, but these are fantastic results

Well done to our brilliant scientists at @JennerOxford & @AstraZeneca, and all who volunteered in the trials

University of Oxford @JennerOxford

Today marks an important milestone in the fight against #COVID19 Interim data show the #OxfordVaccine is 70 4% effective, & tests on two dose regimens show that it could be 90%, moving us one step closer to supply

Look at the success of the Oxford vaccine. A vaccine that's unique in its affordability. Not just to the UK, but to the poorest parts of the world too. You look at that gift to the world and realise there's still much Great in Great Britain. Don't let anybody tell you otherwise

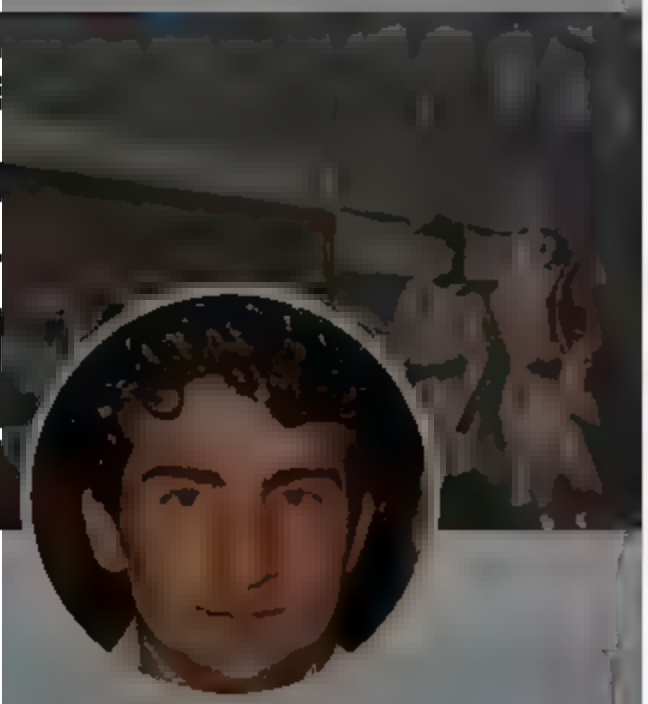
Yes. I imagine they considered it and then used their time machine to travel two years into the future to see what the side effects have been.



Facts are facts. No amount of expert opinion/consideration can change that.

Yes, you're correct. Although the Oxford one may not be the predominant vaccine as it's only 70% effective. Also, if you research it there are other questions to ask. It uses a genetically modified cold virus. Not exactly traditional in its methodology, but has been done before.

I'm not sure he is. I'm usually a fan but he's a bit off on this issue.

The sensible approach would be to just accept we need to wait for legal challenges to be exhausted before we know. On the balance of things he may be right, but it's still only opinion and not factual.

It's also the cheapest though
And that probably balances out against effectiveness

Agreed that it's not quite a tradit onal vaccine, but it's the closest to one of those available so far

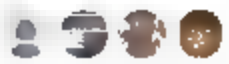
When I ask the question 'what are the side effects of the new vaccines beyond six months' the answer I get from some is 'the same as any other vaccine'.



1. That's a guess.

2. Two of the three are mRNA - unlike any other #vaccine.

Last December I thought we'd elected a @Conservatives gov who'd enact 'conservative' policies for the next 5 years.

A year on & there's no doubt. we've elected a group of dangerous authoritarians who want to remove our freedoms.

[And no. @ JKLabour wouldn t have been better]

Absolutely. Probably worse.

I included it because every time I criticise the government people say 'but Labour would have been worse'. Well, yes, maybe - but the Conservatives have still been awful. It's like people can't cope with the fact they are both sh*t.

Or are you saying that even if Boris sells us out on Brexit then May was still the worse of the two?

No Deal Brexit @eusacksa 5 Min
But your question s hypothetical against rea ity

Boris has not done anything with Brexit???

May a ready tried to screw Brexit.

Massive 2 sides can t be compared

Ask this question on 1st January than t s different.

If you're going to wait for events to unfold before you ask the question then what's the point in a 'hypothetical'? May as well just remove it from the dictionary then.

borough with one of the highest CoVID-19 infection rates in the region.

Both officers were polite and professional throughout the conversation. They did not ask the woman to provide any proof she had a 'reasonable excuse' not to wear a facemask in the shop.

The shopper voluntarily produced a document. This was a generic document printed off the internet and not personal to her circumstances.

Officers are walking a difficult line. We would rather we didn't have to police CoVID-19 legislation but it is important we do to limit the spread of the virus and save lives.

Officers have been asked both regionally and nationally to enforce against people they suspect are flouting CoVID-19 laws. In this case the officers clearly informed the woman of her options and how she was able to contest the fixed penalty notice.

We are committed to keeping our communities safe from the virus.

Thank you to all those gathering to protest in London today.

Peaceful protest is a valuable and vital facet of a free society. Exercising that right today sends a clear message to those who seek to remove or attach draconian conditions to our freedoms.

Peaceful protest is a valuable and vital facet of a free society. Exercising that right today sends a clear message to those who seek to remove or attach draconian conditions to our freedoms

They weren't peaceful. Not with that many people howling and shouting rather than marching with some organised chanting. You could hear them several streets away, and they were antagonistic towards police. I stand by their right to protest, but they were not 'peaceful'

Klara Piechocki @klarabowpie · 39 min
Average citizens like myself ran away from the crowd and hid in side streets. They were in several noisy groups, actively avoiding being escorted by police instead of in one organised stream. No one I could see had a mask on. It was very unsettling as a bystander

Noted, and that is interesting

I wear two hats on this.
Personal: I'm highly vulnerable and have been housebound for 7 years, now mostly horizontal. The more virus out there, the worse my chances are. And that extends to vulnerable people in general.

More broadly, I see this as a counterproductive protest when the restrictions are temporary, waiting on the roll-out of antivirals, when life will look a lot more normal.

Well, my "normal" won't change much

1. There is no conflict between the two. People are free to stay at home and isolate from others if they so wish.

2. Following your logic means that every flu season, when 17,000 people die in England, that we should be under restrictions for months at a time.

How is this hard?

So the tier restrictions will end on Feb 3. Really?

In March it was "3 weeks to flatten the curve". Then we'd "turn the tide" by April, then "back to normal by Xmas" & don't forget "no second lockdown". Now it's freedom by "spring".

This will NEVER end until WE decide it does.

Besides, you've rather missed the point. The comparison was concerning the defence given at the Nuremberg trials. The principle is that orders are not always to be followed. But sure, you go ahead and feign offence.

COMMENT

I SUPPORTED the second lockdown reluctantly

I was concerned by the arguments about NHS capacity but my local NHS, which has performed exceptionally, is not overwhelmed.

Yet Buckinghamshire has been placed in Tier 2, having gone into lockdown in Tier 1.

It makes very little sense to my constituents that having endured the trauma of a second lockdown, they are put into a higher tier.

Forty-two per cent of the country was in Tier 1 before lockdown and now it's just one per cent. Ninety-nine per cent will soon be in Tier 2 or 3, which bans households mixing. This feels like an end to lockdown in name only.

Businesses are struggling and I worry about the impact on other conditions and mental health.

Covid is devastating of course. Our Government is right to take measured steps but it is borrowing more than ever and the Office for Budget Responsibility says the economy will shrink by around 11 per cent this year – the biggest fall in 300 years.

If it does fall off a cliff it will not only be livelihoods and businesses in ruin but wealth won't be generated to pay for our vital services, such as the NHS.

Many MPs wrote to the Prime Minister last weekend saying that for us to continue supporting tiered restrictions we need to see a cost-benefit analysis so that we can be sure we are not causing more harm.

We must give equal regard to cancer, dementia, heart disease and mental health and to the implications of poverty and falling output.

We also need local decision-making and proper consultation, not just Whitehall instructions.

The safety of my constituents isn't reliant on the presumption that Covid is our only challenge.

Let's be clear The United Kingdom is 'governed' and not 'ruled' by Parliament.
This happens by consent.

Millions of us are now saying 'no'
A line has been crossed.
Parliament ignores that at its peril.

Every MP who votes in favour of [or abstains from] the tier system today does so knowing they are:

- Decimating our economy.
- Saddling our children with debt.

A few months ago there were leaked parliamentary committee documents which debated the 'ethics' of forced vaccinations. Under the 1983 mental health act you can be forcibly vaccinated.

Disappointment is relative I guess and dependent on the level of expectation you'd placed on that person. I, for example, am not disappointed in @Keir Starmer because I knew he'd be a gutless sheep. Expectation met. No disappointment.

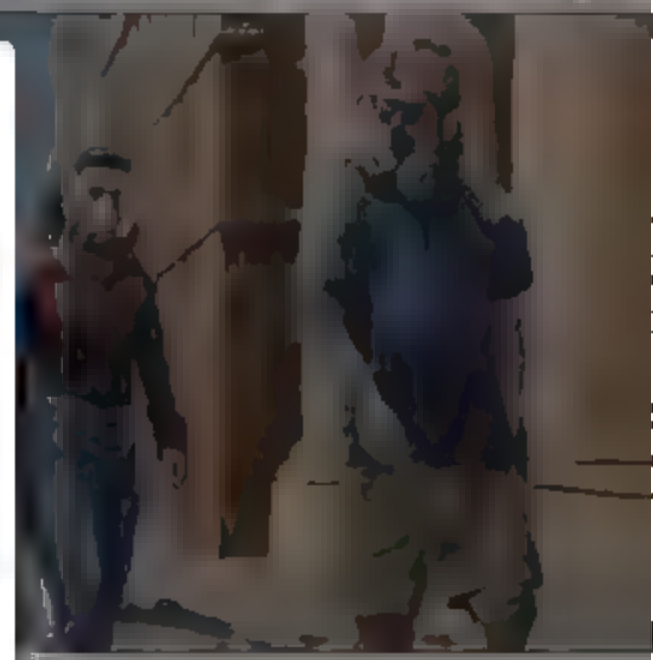
Every MP who votes in favour of [or abstains from] the tier system today does so in contradiction to the interests of their constituents.



They know that, yet many will do it anyway. Why?

Someone I knew in their mid-40s died from Covid-19 over the weekend, leaving behind 2 teenage children

I genuinely don't understand why Newton Clarke thinks the national debt increasing a few more % is more important than protecting people like my friend.

Maybe he's a psycho.

17,000 people die on average per year of flu in England. Some are in their mid-40s and leave behind children. I presume you're advocating lockdown every year to save those people? Or are you a psycho?

Every MP who votes in favour of [or abstains from] the tier system today does so knowing they are:

- Decimating our economy
- Saddling our children with debt.
- Sacrificing thousands of jobs.
- Destroying mental health
- Costing lives.

We will not forget.

Richard Burgon MP @RichardBurgon 5 Std

I will be voting against the Government s coronavirus proposals today.

I will be voting against the Government's proposals today. Covid cases have fallen significantly during lockdown but they remain dangerously high The Government's proposed tier system and its wider approach over the coming weeks risks a deadly Third Wave

It would be better to use the next few weeks until Christmas to extend the lockdown with proper levels of financial support and sick pay and use this to get the virus down to much more manageable levels that would give Test and Trace a better chance of succeeding.

This would not only save lives but make it more likely that we could avoid further lockdowns in the new year helping to give businesses the certainty they need rather than the constant stopping and starting they currently face

Going to be more careful with #vaccine tweets. Don't want to get account nuked.

What I will say is factual:

- The #Pfizer vaccine is the first ever mRNA vaccine approved.

- The trials began in May.

- The max amount of time they've had to observe side effects is 7 months.

The only #vaccine I'd even consider taking is the Oxford vaccine, which uses a conventional method.

I won't be accepting an #mRNA vaccine, of which the #PfizerBiotech vaccine is the first ever to be approved.

If you don't know the difference then it's time to do some research.

Going to be more careful with #vaccine tweets. Don't want to get account nuked

What I will say is factual:

- The #Pfizer vaccine is the first ever mRNA vaccine approved
- The trials began in May.
- The max amount of time they've had to observe side effects is 7 months.

The flu shot is slightly altered each year to target particular patterns on the mutated virus. It is not a new shot by any means. You know that, right?

4 2 24

Deborah Cowell @deborahcowe 1 25 Min

My personal research tells me that mRNA vaccines will be safer than traditional ones as there is no virus injected. The mRNA is quickly broken down after it has been translated into antigens and provoked the immune response There is no mechanism for long term effects.

Well at least you've looked into it and formed an opinion.

Still my basic question remains unanswered: Are there any longer term side effects? Scientists can theorise about that but ultimately it hasn't been observed scientifically yet. There is no getting around that.

effects? Scientists can theorise about that but ultimately it hasn't been observed scientifically yet. There is no getting around that.

Deborah Cowell @deborahcowe 1 53 Min

The vaccine has to be kept at a very low temp because mRNA is so unstable, so long term effects are much less likely than with a traditional vaccine. Your own genetic material is not altered, so how could there be long term effects?

Deborah Cowell @deborahcowe 1 48 Min

Why do you think there would be any long term effects if there haven't been any so far? How long do you want to wait? A year? 10 years? How could there be any effects if they didn't happen immediately?

Newton Peter Clarke

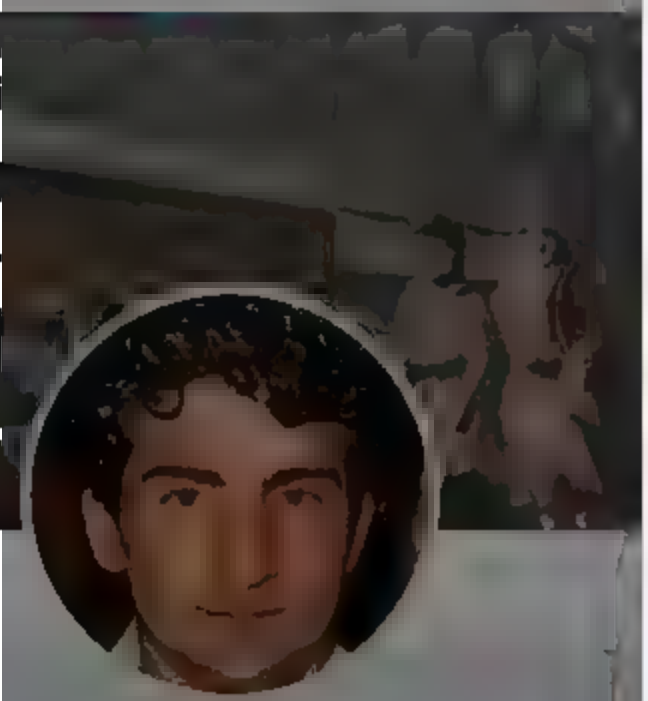
Pandemrix? That was only in 2010.

Do you imagine Pfizer cease observing the population for side effects? That will continue for years.



We haven't even had a full human gestation period so have no idea what effect it might have on pregnant ladies (who are advised not to take it)

Most I reckon will just be happy to get any that works.

Yes, the Oxford vaccine would be the only one I'd even consider as it s a conventional vacc ne. The other two are mRNA vaccines the first ones ever
You might want to do some research.

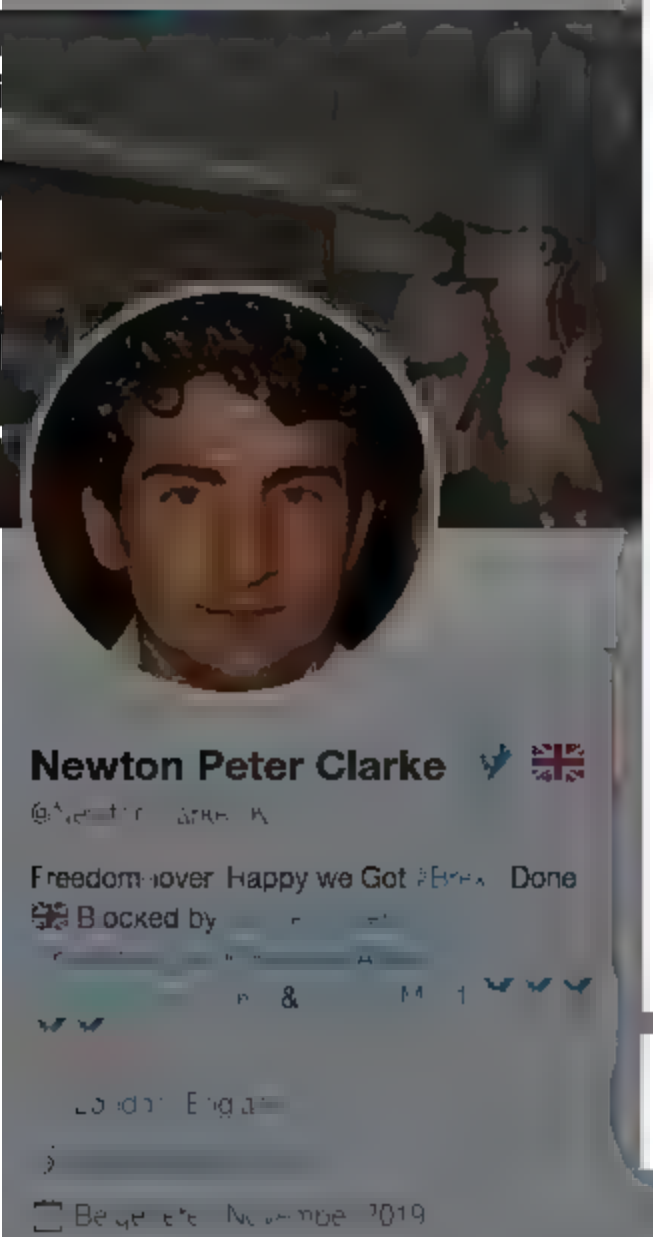
Yes, doing your own research takes brain power. I can see how that would be a problem for you.



It also seems you're confused about what an antisemitic smear is, which is hardly surprising given the state of your profile.

This government document for healthcare professionals confirms the effects of the #Pfizer #vaccine on pregnancy are largely unknown. It also states:

"It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 has an impact on fertility."

This seems to be a vital piece of information?

4.6 Fertility, pregnancy and lactation

Pregnancy
There are no or limited amount of data from the use of COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2
Animal reproductive toxicity studies have not been completed. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine
BNT162b2 is not recommended during pregnancy

For women of childbearing age, pregnancy should be excluded before vaccination. In addition, women of childbearing age should be advised to avoid pregnancy for at least 2 months after their second dose

Breast-feeding
It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 is excreted in human milk. A risk to the newborns/infants cannot be excluded. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 should not be used during breast feeding.

Yes, very few got pregnant 'after' vaccination. not enough for statistical level of confidence, but 'not targeted' No pregnant woman has died of Covid.

Coronavirus and pregnancy

Q. What is the main advice for pregnant women?

There is no evidence that pregnant women are more likely to get seriously ill from coronavirus but pregnant women have been included in the list of people at moderate risk (clinically vulnerable) as a precaution. The government guidance for the clinically vulnerable remains in place and you should ensure you continue to follow the latest government guidance

Twitters word count makes serious discussion mostly impossible, you either come off as a spammer or end up with 3 different chains with the same person as they reply to your paragraphs.

Almost as if they wanted to censor proper discourse from the start

The breakfast news yesterday had a full explanation regarding pregnant women and new born. It was full explanation the new vaccine should not be given to these categories Which makes sense, they are not high risk categories in any event. Seems all reasonable to me to be fair

Yes, it is unknown because the research did not encompass pregnant women. So this is a factual statement and, rightly, on that basis the Govt do not recommend the vaccine for pregnant women as well as immunosuppressed people Same as many other vaccines,

This @Conservatives government will forever be the one that considered it acceptable to remove basic freedoms from millions of people.

Boris Johnson could lead us into the Promised Land now and that still wouldn't be enough for me.

You're literally making my point for me. 'Only after years could they say it didn't affect fertility.' Precisely. And trials usually take place over a number of years, allowing for the 'volunteers' to develop side effects.

It's unknown and being tested on the general population.

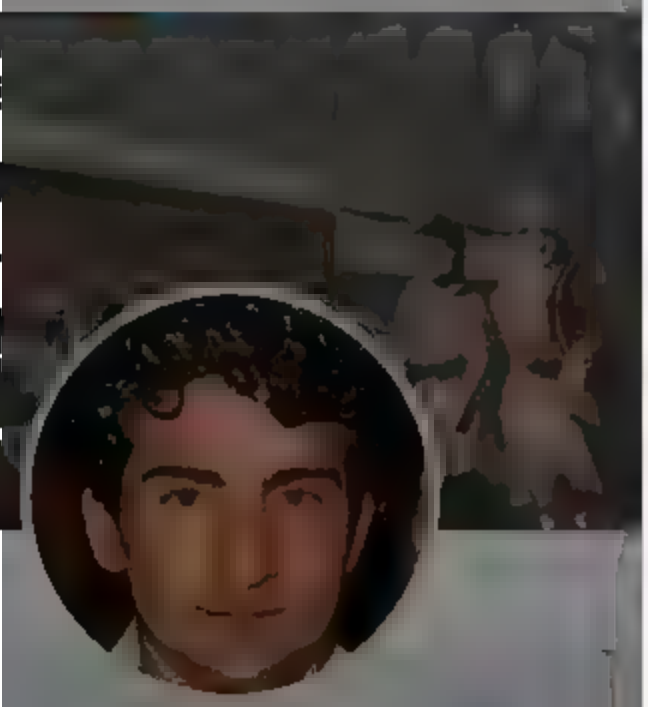
4.6 Fertility, pregnancy and lactation

Pregnancy
There are no or limited amount of data from the use of COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 in pregnant women. Animal reproductive toxicity studies have not been completed. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 is not recommended during pregnancy.



For women of childbearing age, pregnancy should be excluded before vaccination. In addition, women of childbearing age should be advised to avoid pregnancy for at least 2 months after their second dose.

Breast-feeding
It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 is excreted in human milk. A risk to the newborns/infants cannot be excluded. COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 should not be used during breast-feeding.

Fertility
It is unknown whether COVID-19 mRNA Vaccine BNT162b2 has an impact on fertility.

Wel they obviously are separate entities. They are registered as three separate politica parties with the electoral commission

You may think they are 'all the same' in a ph osophical or even conspiratorial way, but your view of them doesn't change their registered status.

I know exactly what you re ta king about. I completely grasp the concept. t's not really what the origina tweet was about.

R.mac.55 @Rmac551 2 Std
If you grasp the concept why are you st ll looking at them as separate parties? They al work for each other and al have the same goal to enrich themselves at your expense and every so often they switch which party is in power so we think we've had any say.

It's not about what fish I'll eat, sell it to the EU.

Unfortunately if there's tariffs
You won't be selling any fish
I live in Brittany where there's a fishing port almost every few km on the coast
Even my neighbours hit out fishing. It's huge here. I don't think they'd pay extra though Chinese may buy fish?
Anything else to sell

"a vile, marxist ideology"

Christmas the celebration of birth of a man who was later nailed to a tree by politicians for daring to suggest people try to be nice to each other

Maybe take some time to think about that.

Further comments from yesterday's game

the taking of the knee in support of the BLM campaign, but nothing prepared us for what we heard.

I was proud of my players and staff for not letting the fans deter them from continuing to present a positive and important message that taking the knee immediately before a game sends. The professionalism of the players on both sides throughout the game was a credit to our profession, after such an incident.

On behalf of Derby County Football Club I want it to be clear to everyone associated with the club that we represent all sectors of our community regardless of colour, gender or sexuality. Fans being allowed back in to stadiums is vital for the wellbeing of everybody involved in our sport from Personally having read about its activity wouldn't touch the Pfizer one with a barge pole but could possibly be persuaded into having the AstraZeneca one.

Yes, they were both more amenable to the idea of the Oxford vaccine, but even then would want to see what sort of trial data is available. I would imagine the Oxford vaccine will have the same sort of 'unknowns' as the Pfizer one.

I'd be surprised if the Flat Earth Society has taken a stance on vaccines.

There are many 'unknowns' about this vaccine, including its impact on fertility.

Do you realise how silly you sound when you imply anyone who has reservations about it are somehow conspiracy theorists?

It's about time we start taking some self-responsibility, stop letting the government think for us, and accept that we've always had a choice.

We've been told we don't have a choice, but we still control our actions.

No, wearing a mask isn't. When someone tells me I must wear a mask it is. But you have chosen the most minor of impositions. Obviously the more serious ones are restricting the movements and social interactions of free citizens and preventing legitimate businesses from trading.

According to Sky only 11% of people wouldn't stick to Tier lockdown restrictions once they had been vaccinated

What the hell is wrong with the other 89%?

I had no idea authoritarianism was so attractive and personal responsibility so under valued

Most people agree that only those vaccinated should be able to fly when a #coronavirus vaccine is freely available, according to a Sky News poll.

The findings also suggest there is work to do to convince the public. Here are the results

Does @BorisJohnson honestly think he can roll out this vaccine, reinstate our freedoms, & then we just carry on as normal?

This government has crossed a line. It has removed basic freedoms & treated us like prisoners. There must be justice & this must never be repeated. #COVID19

> Boris Johnson @BorisJohnson
> Today the first vaccinations in the UK against COVID-19 began. Thank you to our NHS, to all of the scientists who worked so hard to develop this vaccine, to all the volunteers - and to everyone who has been following the rules to protect others. Margaret is a guinea pig. I hope she understands that.

No data is available on how the vaccine interacts with other medications, and nobody as old as her took part in the trials. There's also no side effects data beyond seven months

To those criticising @KayBurley & @BethRigby:

If journalists were held to the same standard they hold others to we'd be at serious risk of undermining our democracy. Journalists are in a unique position & deserve journalistic privilege. Please think before you tweet.

Today has been an emotional day. On our little island, our #NHS administered the first #Covid vaccine in the world. I've been so proud to be a Minister in @DHSCgovUK during the hardest ten months but today was a very good day. Proud of our healthcare workers and all involved.

You are the ones who have made it the 'hardest ten months' with your insane authoritarianism. You are all finished. There's no coming back from this.

I just don't get you on this one. You are probably right, and Biden will be President, but your constant pleas to 'please leave it now' etc are just bizarre. There are still legal challenges including from Texas. Why don't you just observe the process and allow it to play out?

FYI if the police knock on your door because some jobsworth has called them you don't actually have to let them in and they have no power to enter under coronavirus legislation. You don't even need to answer the door.

Negot ations are st ongo ng but the end of the transition is near There is no guarantee that f & when an agreement is found t can enter into force on time. We have to be prepared inc ud ng for not having a deal in place on 1 January. Today we present contingency measures

European Commission - Press release

Relations with the UK: Commission proposes targeted contingency measures to prepare for possible "no-deal" scenario

Brussels, 10 December 2020

While the Commission will continue to do its utmost to reach a mutually beneficial agreement with the UK there is now significant uncertainty whether a deal wil be n place on 1 January 202 .

The European Commission has today put forward a set of targeted cont ngency measures ensuring basic reciprocal air and road connectivity between the EU and he UK as well as allowing for the possib l y of rec proca fishing access by E and UK vessels o each other s waters

The aim of these contingency measures is to cater for the period during which there is no agreement in place Any agreement enters nto application, they will end after a fixed period

President von der Leyen said "Negotiations are stil ongoing However g ven that the end of the transition is very near there is no guarantee that if and when an agreement is found it can enter into force on time. Our responsibility is to be prepared for all eventualities, including not having a deal in place with the UK on 1 January 202 . That is why we are coming forward with these measures today"

The Commission has consistently called on all stakeholders n all sectors to prepare for all possible scenarios on January 2021 While a "no deal" scenario will cause disruptions in many areas, some sectors would be disproportionately affected due to a lack of appropriate fal back solut ons and because in some sectors, stakeholders cannot themselves take m tigating measures The Commission is herefore putting forward today four cont ngency measures to mi igate some of the significant d sruptions that will occur on 1 January in case a deal with the UK is not yet n place

- Basic air connectivity A proposal for a Regulation to ensure the provision of certain air services between the UK and the Eu for 6 months provided the UK ensures the same
- Aviation safety A proposal for a Regulation ensuring that various safety certificates for products can cont nue to be used n EU aircraft without disruption, thereby avoid ng the grounding of Eu aircraft
- Basic road connectivity: A proposal for a Regulation covering basic connectivity with regard to both road freight and road passenger transport for 6 months provided the UK assures the same to EU hauliers
- Fisheries: A proposal for a Regulation to create the appropriate legal framework until 31 December 202 or unt l a fisheries agreement with the UK has been conc uded whichever date s earlier for cont nued recip oca access by Eu and UK vessels to each other's waters after 1 December 2020 n order to guarantee the sus ainab l ty of fisheries and n light of the

The Commission has consistently called on all stakeholders in all sectors to prepare for all possible scenarios on 1 January 2021. While a "no deal" scenario will cause disruptions in many areas, some sectors would be disproportionately affected due to a lack of appropriate fall back solutions and because in some sectors stakeholders cannot themselves take mitigating measures. The Commission is therefore putting forward today four contingency measures to mitigate some of the significant disruptions that will occur on 1 January in case a deal with the UK is not yet in place

- Basic air connectivity: A proposal for a Regulation to ensure the provision of certain air services between the UK and the EU for 6 months, provided the UK ensures the same
- Aviation safety: A proposal for a Regulation ensuring that various safety certificates for products can continue to be used in EU aircraft without disruption, thereby avoiding the grounding of EU aircraft
- Basic road connectivity: A proposal for a Regulation covering basic connectivity with regard to both road freight and road passenger transport for 6 months, provided the UK assures the same to EU hauliers
- Fisheries: A proposal for a Regulation to create the appropriate legal framework until 31 December 2021, or until a fisheries agreement with the UK has been concluded, whichever date is earlier, for continued reciprocal access by EU and UK vessels to each other's waters after 31 December 2020. In order to guarantee the sustainability of fisheries and in light of the importance of fisheries for the economic livelihood of many communities, it is necessary to activate the procedures of authorisation of fishing vessels.

The Commission will work closely with the European Parliament and Council with a view to facilitate entry into application on 1 January 2021 of all four proposed Regulations

Can you believe this? 🤦‍♂️🇪🇺

Looks like 'cherry-picking' to me? 🍒

#Brexit #UrsulaVonDerLeyen #BorisJohnson #FishTwitter com/vonderleyen.st

> The Commission has consistently called on all stakeholders in all sectors to prepare for all possible scenarios on 1 January 2021. While a "no-deal" scenario will cause disruptions in many areas, some sectors would be disproportionately affected due to a lack of appropriate fall-back solutions and because in some sectors stakeholders cannot themselves take mitigating measures. The Commission is therefore putting forward today four contingency measures to mitigate some of the significant disruptions that will occur on 1 January in case a deal with the UK is not yet in place
> - Basic air connectivity: A proposal for a Regulation to ensure the provision of certain air services between the UK and the EU for 6 months, provided the UK ensures the same
> - Aviation safety: A proposal for a Regulation ensuring that various safety certificates for products can continue to be used in EU aircraft without disruption, thereby avoiding the grounding of EU aircraft
> - Basic road connectivity: A proposal for a Regulation covering basic connectivity with regard to both road freight and road passenger transport for 6 months, provided the UK ensures the same to EU hauliers
> - Fisheries: A proposal for a Regulation to create the appropriate legal framework until 31 December 2021 or until a fisheries agreement with the UK has been concluded, whichever date is earlier, for continued reciprocal access by EU and UK vessels to each other's waters after 31 December 2020. In order to guarantee the sustainability of fisheries and in light of the importance of fisheries for the economic livelihood of many communities it is necessary to recalibrate the procedures of authorisation of fishing vessels
> The Commission will work closely with the European Parliament and Council with a view to facilitate entry into application on 1 February 2021 of all four proposed Regulations
> Ursula von der Leyen Jean-Claude Juncker and Michel Barnier

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE UNITED KINGDOM

9 December 2020

Before:

Lord Reed
Lord Hodge
Lord Lloyd-Jones

R (on the application of Dolan and others) (Appellants) v
Secretary of State for Health and Social Care and another (Respondents)

AFTER CONSIDERATION of the application filed on behalf of the Appellants seeking permission to appeal the order made by the Court of Appeal on 1 December 2020 and the objections filed by the Respondents

THE COURT ORDERED that

(1) permission to appeal be REFUSED because the application does not raise an arguable question of law

(2) the Appellants pay the Respondents' costs of the application and, where the Respondents apply for costs, the costs to be awarded be assessed

You've literally just given us a snapshot of how it works. "I don't like your thoughts so I am now going to 'joke' about killing you and disposing of your body..." Under the right conditions that fantasy becomes reality.

It didn't start with the murder of six million people.

This government said they would be able to change laws right there in black and white in their manifesto! Didn't anyone read it? They've done exactly what we were warned about! Why is anyone surprised?

Newton Peter Clarke @NewtonClarkeJK 59 Min
I'm not sure I understand your point. Any government (or parliament) can 'change laws'. That's sort of how it works

Martin #MentalHealthMatters! @MartinKoss 33 Min
There was very specific wording which made a few comment about it. Not having a copy of the manifesto I can't recall the exact wording but it was along the lines of "we will do whatever is necessary to get laws passed (without the scrutiny & approval process of Lords if nec)"

Which is not 'sort of how it works' normally when correct procedures are followed and the right people get to scrutinise and amend things before being rubber stamped. Bypassing procedures gives an unsafe amount of power to a few with, perhaps, hidden (self centred) agendas.

Whatever happens in 2021 we must urgently amend our laws so that a government or parliament is never able to remove the basic freedoms of Britons ever again and anyone who attempts to do so is held fully accountable.

I agree with what you are trying to achieve, but no government can tie the hands of a future government

What we need is a written constitutional that a gov could technically amend, BUT all hell would break lose if it did. As in the states. And amendments would improve liberty.

Yes, it could take the form of a constitution. It needs to be a one-time change that does tie future governments. That's the whole point.

Brexit is personal for me. Europe – of which we British are an integral part – is the home of my heart & mind. Europeans are my kinfolk. The ugly barrier-building introverted narrow little Brexiter mentality tries to tear me from them & our joint future. I'll never accept that.

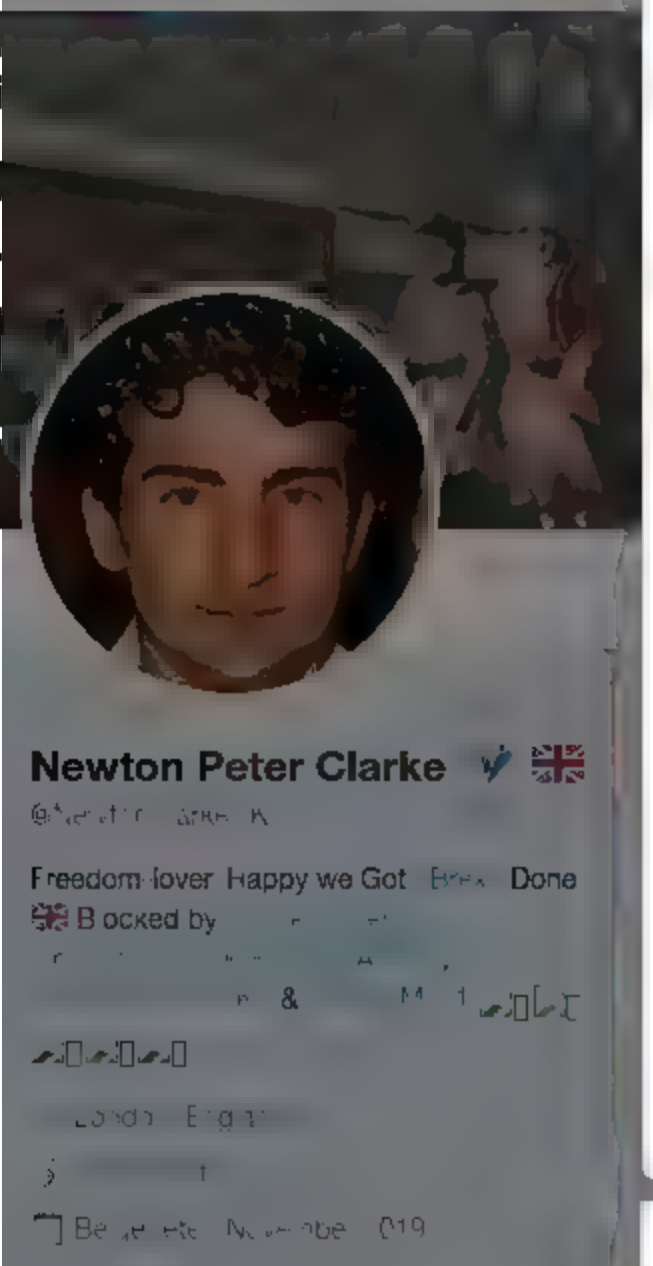
Oh yes. I totally remember all those trade deals our government negotiated and standards regulations it set when members of the EU...



Whether there is reduced 'bargaining power' or not is a secondary issue.

I left the United Kingdom for France in 1997. I'm still regrettably a British citizen until the paperwork arrives for my French nationality. As the country of my birth has declared itself my enemy, my allegiance is completely with France.

Quite shocked by the number of Remainers still demanding Brexiters 'explain the benefits of Brexit'

Have they not grasped the majority of Brexiters simply value principles of national sovereignty & democratic accountability? Everything else is secondary.

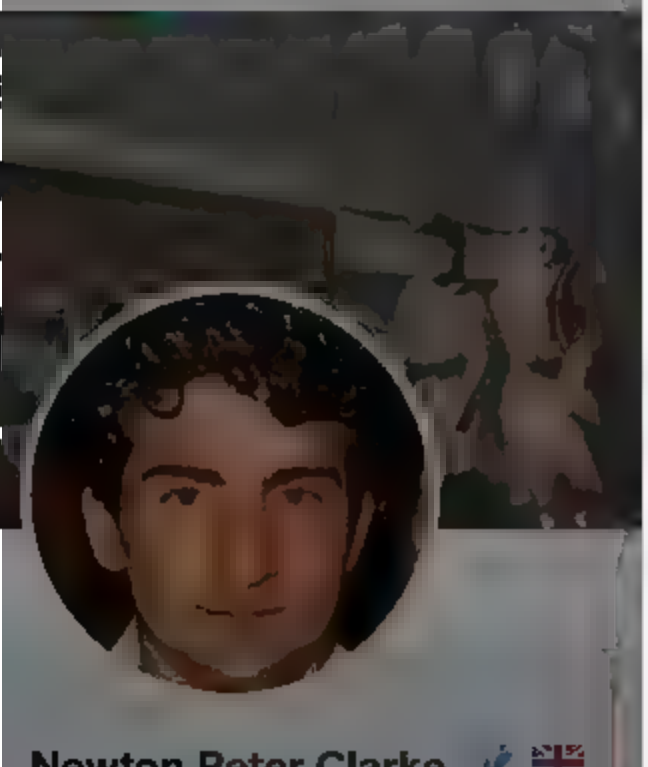
So you view sovereignty of the nation state and democratic accountability for those who make decisions on our behalf as 'just an enhanced sense of self due to a geographical concept'? That's probably why you think it 'sounds shite'.



The commercial and economic is yet to be seen.

This is an excellent example of the kind of misunderstanding that this 'native better' mindset produces

Above everything else, it makes you a worse gardener. As this claim is absolutely not based on any sort of botanical reality

What would you be arguing for within EU27 if you were Macron?

Andy Matthews @am1art1 22h
If were Macron I would be arguing for an EU wide blockade of the UK close al ports , airports and the tunnel to the UK unti Johnson s Gov s brought to it s knees. That would end this Johnson Gov very quickly. I shook hands with Macron in Arles a while back, nice chap.

We had a very flawed and illegal Brexit, other than time being the ruling against illegality. No super majority, no parliament vote etc etc. Any trade deal requires a court of jurisdiction to be assigned for disputes. As likely not a UK court. If thats sovreignty it will be lost.

Boris Johnson doesn't have the power to 'cancel Christmas'. Can we all just stop pretending he does. Utterly ridiculous.

Creeps me out how many of the movies produced over the last couple of decades are HORROR movies pandemic movies, zombie movies. I only see the Trailers but it is still quite obvious

TV where the heroes are manufacturing CRACK.

We have been softened up for this.

Yes, you did. I think what I'm saying is that it's totally unworkable in practice for them. Imagine you've got 20 people for Xmas Day. The neighbours grass you up & police come round. You don't answer. They'd then have to find a magistrate to allow entry. Never gonna happen.

In Parliament, I just challenged Jacob Rees-Mogg about UNICEF having to feed working class kids in the UK.

His reply? "UNICEF should be ashamed of itself" He accused it of "playing politics"

Someone raised an interesting point yesterday.

If an employer insists that you have the vaccine or else, do they also accept legal liability if anything went wrong?

Could a person ask for formal acceptance of liability?

Anyone?

The employer can't insist in the first place. And if they sack you then they'll lose at an employment tribunal and you'll get a nice little payout.

Fuck off Ross #DefundTheBBC

Ignoring this letter could cost you a lot more than the licence fee.

tvlicensing.co.uk

TV Licensing, Darlington DL98 1TL

Licence fee £157.50

Maximum fine £1,000†

Dear Sir/Madam

We understand you may be busy. But since you didn't respond to our last letter, an investigation into your property has now begun.

You can still stop the investigation.

But you need to buy a licence without delay.

- Spread the cost by setting up a Direct Debit at tvlicensing.co.uk/dd
- Or pay the full fee today at tvlicensing.co.uk/pay

Or if you already have a licence, you need to move it from your old address at tvlicensing.co.uk/moving

A court appearance could cost you over £1,000.

As your details have now been passed on to our Enforcement Division, a visit to your property is being authorised. If you are found to be watching or recording live TV programmes on any channel or downloading or watching BBC programmes on iPlayer illegally – whether on a computer, tablet, mobile phone, games console, digital box, DVD, VHS recorder or any other device – you may face prosecution and a fine of up to £1,000, plus any legal costs and, or compensation you may be ordered to pay.

Of course, if you don't need a licence, we'd like to stop writing to you so please let us know at tvlicensing.co.uk/noTV. We may confirm this with a visit. And if you've recently bought or moved a licence, thank you – our records will now have been updated.

Yours faithfully

Ross McTaggart
Customer Service Director

In Scotland, Scottish criminal law applies. A report will be sent to the Procurator Fiscal, who will decide on prosecution. The maximum fine is £2,000 in Guernsey.

performance help level up opportunities for women in the workplace, overcoming the barriers that make women less likely to put themselves forward for promotion.

And we know that evidence-driven recruitment in a clear and open structure is more effective than using informal and ad hoc networks.

On the other hand, techniques like unconscious bias training, quotas and diversity statements do nothing to make the workplace fundamentally

So, the answer is no, you don't have any evidence that she didn't hire the best people for the job.

What you're saying is that you'd be hiring people from different backgrounds intentionally because you think that's better. That doesn't mean Liz Truss is biased in her hiring.

On the other hand, techniques like unconscious bias training, quotas and diversity statements do nothing to make the workplace fundamentally

Newton Peter Clarke @NewtonClarkeJK 12 Min

So, the answer is no, you don't have any evidence that she didn't hire the best people for the job

What you're saying is that you'd be hiring people from different backgrounds intentionally because you think that's better That doesn't mean Liz Truss is biased in her hiring

Charles Arthur @charlesarthur 9 Min

A non-diverse team will make worse decisions than a diverse one This is proven by research, and you can demonstrate it to yourself with a thought experiment taking it the other way. We can conclude therefore that her team is not going to make the ideal set of decisions

Antwort an @charlesarthur @bernespofforth

That's demonstrably untrue. Even if we take your understanding of diversity, which seems very narrow, I can't see how a team of highly qualified experts of the same sex & skin colour would make poorer decisions than a team that is poorly qualified but 'diverse'.

But besides that, you still haven't demonstrated how Liz Truss has been biased n her hiring If you didn't mean to say that in the first place and just meant that research suggests diverse teams make better decisions, that's fine.

Except neither you or the 'journalist' from the Guardian were able to demonstrate that she hasn't been hiring the most qualified and gifted people - so totally not supported by the story.

Not the Conservatives.

Continually voting for the least sh*t party is why we get sh*t governments. We are propping it up.

Let's be clear: To run an article like this is not 'impartial'. It's an editorial decision designed to create/reinforce a narrative. Ask yourself: why did they not run an emotional interview with someone encouraging people to see family?

"Ask yourself: why did they not run an emotional interview with someone encouraging people to see family?"
Because @BBCNews is a public service broadcaster, which means that they don't want their stories to lead to more people dying.

I think the line "I think Labour would have given more notice" kind of gave it away. Labour struggle to predict the day after Saturday. They have been singularly abject as an opposition, Starmer is not the man and you thought they'd give more notice: hence delusional.

Wrong. You need to pay more attention to detail. At no point did I add any value to idea of Labour giving us more notice. You might need to change your profile pic. Clouseau wouldn't have made that mistake.

Parliament was persuaded to vote for the tier system by being assured some Tier 3 areas would be moved into Tier 2 on Dec 16th and no further lockdowns would be imposed without a Parliamentary vote. The Government has played MPs for fools. I hope they won't be fooled again.

What we saw last night was decisive leadership.

Truly strong leadership is doing what is right even when it is hard. Even when it won't make you popular

The luxury Labour in opposition have is not actually having to take any tough decisions whilst yelling from the sidelines.

Three quarters of Britons support the creation of the new Tier 4 coronavirus restrictions

The UK Government has announced the creation of coronavirus restriction Tier 4 is being created for those areas where the disease is spreading most quickly, including in London the South East and the East of England. These will be broadly equivalent to national restrictions which were introduced in England in November. Residents in those areas must stay at home with limited exemptions. Non-essential retail and indoors gyms must close. People should work from home where they can and should not enter or leave Tier 4 areas although communal worship may continue. Do you support or oppose these changes %

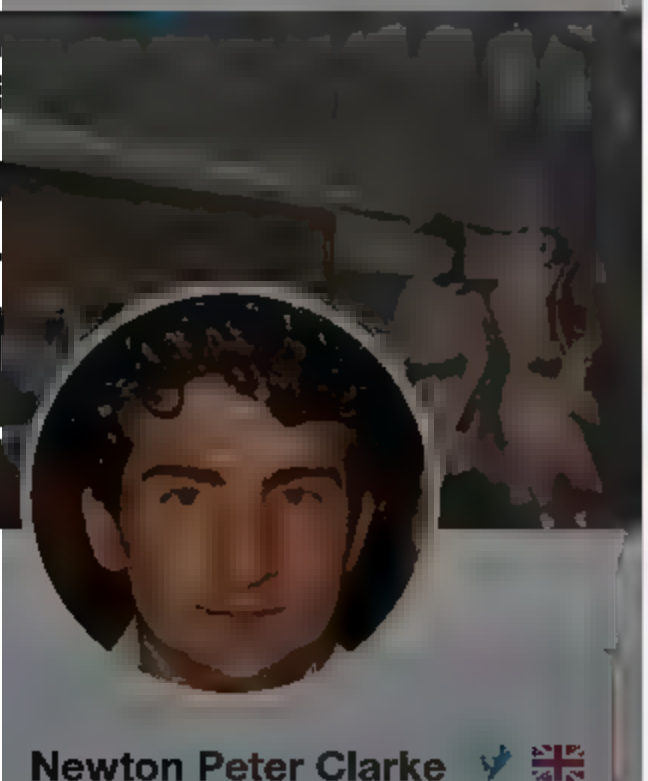
Guess what? Tier 4 hasn't been signed into law - only Tiers 1-3 - and the Christmas grace period is still 5 days in law.



The new rules are therefore just 'guidance' and not enforceable until passed through parliament.

Who made any comparison to London?

So you're saying if a city only has 1.6m inhabitants at the population density of Stockholm then masks aren't required because the population density isn't great enough? I'm sure there are lots of places that would qualify for that in the UK.

Sir Dystic @tonydr0 3 Min

There are multiple vaccines likely to reach the testing standard to be approved for use Likely most if not all of them will be effective against new strains as genetic variations are generally very minor in terms of what it looks like to human antibodies

Doomsday scenario based on not altering the restrictions at the time (late September) Lots of restrictions were brought in (tiers), transmission drops, cases grow slower The chart shows the success of the restrictions The shit reality of 2020.

1. The a government already admitted their projection was based on out of date data (so they lied).

2. Considering we were already on the way down from the peak before lockdown was put in place I'm calling BS.

How wonderful it is we haven't had to face 'worst case scenario' Yet. But there is the new strain of the virus which is 70% more virulent. Yes, that's 70% And then there's research which has revealed anyone whose blood group isn t type 'O' is 20% more vulnerable to C 19.

Could you show me the data that indicates this new strain is '70% more transmissible'? Or did you just take their word for it? The people who already lied to you by knowingly using faulty data for their 4,000 deaths per day projection?

Why would they lie to us about a strain being more contagious? They reported to WHO & knew about this months ago but UK had their heads in the sand on dealing with it. It's an embarrassment & all countries are doing the right thing to ban us. The whole world's eyes are on us now

Unbelievable. #DefundTheBBC

Peter Whittle AM @prwhittle
Why am I not surprised by this. Johnson has shelved the proposal to decriminalize the BBC license fee
